The Cyprus Institute of Neurology & Genetics has established the 1st Chair of Bioinformatics in Cyprus through a European H2020 ERA Chair grant (BIORISE, 2015-2020). The establishment of the Bioinformatics ERA Chair has attracted talented scientists in the modern fields of informatics in medicine and biology. The team will work in collaboration with all CING Departments and Clinics in order to satisfy urgent needs for cutting edge computational analyses on a wealth of biomedical data, thus enhancing both the early diagnosis for a large range of diseases and the targeted drug discovery. The Bioinformatics ERA Chair will increase the capacity and level of excellence of CING across research, education and services having also a serious impact on the CING participation in competitive research programs at national and international levels.
